

SPECIALIST IN TRANSPORTATION & LOGISTICS

Fall 2023 – Fall 2024

AEC LCA.DS

Be a part of a dynamic industry

The Specialist in Transportation and Logistics program prepares graduates to fulfill a wide range of technical roles in the logistics and transport sector, specifically in transportation, warehousing, distribution, and other related areas of the supply chain and logistics industry.

If you are seeking to start a career in a sector which offers long-term career prospects have related experience in the transportation industry and want to advance to an administrative position, here is what you need to know.

You will learn

- To organize transportation efficiently taking into consideration intercultural differences
- To perform tasks related to moving goods around the world
- The processes involved in importing and exporting goods
- Hazardous materials protection measures and safety measures
- The management of inventory, warehouse operations, and the supply chain
- The steps in handling a client's file while ensuring good customer service
- Cost management and purchasing strategies

Transportation and Logistics Jobs and Salaries dispatcher • customs clearance technician • logistics planner • accounts manager • logistics technician or coordinator • warehouse technician • import/export coordinator

Graduates from the program work in:

Manufacturing enterprises • distribution centres • warehouses • transportation companies (maritime, road, marine, air) • customs brokerage firms • third party logistics companies (3PLs) • companies involved in providing logistics services

$22-27$ per hour, on average

Next Cohort (Fall 2023) → Sign up to attend an information session